“Designed to Disrupted”

CATALOG

Creation, Curation and Collection.

Working together with artists, together we aim to change the perspective people have on art, and share it to the world. Museum of Toys houses a great collection of designer Toys from top local and international artists. Experience how the artists breathe their own artistic styles and influence into their toys. Discover how the street culture of hip-hop and skateboarding can translate into surreal creations of art and how they blend flawlessly into toys. It is art as you have never seen nor experienced before.

“Designed to Disrupted”

“There is nothing truly new under the same sky.”

Genesis challenges this idea by returning to the beginning when nothing existed, no shapes, no history, and no meaning. These works imagine the world as if it has never been made. From that emptiness, new forms are born free from old rules, styles, or traditions. This is not a copy of the past, but a fresh visual language created from scratch. The objects are bold and strange plump, squeezed, and sometimes absurd. They're not meant to be harmonious, but to create controlled chaos. It shows a world still forming, uncertain but full of potential. Genesis is about imagining that nothing has come before because only then can something truly new be created.

OUR ARTWORK

Chuanslee

1993, Jakarta

Chuanslee (1993) is a contemporary artist who uses the medium of street art graffiti to depict the art of life created in a comfort zone. Working with a character who lives in the box dimension he creates, Chuanslee draws a broader meaning from the meaning of life found in his comfort zone.

His characteristic scribbles are the result of thoughts to explore the relationship between the space for human movement within the comfort zone and the structure of the "Earth" which continues to rotate. Through the 'box' dimension he created, new multidimensional worlds continue to be created beyond that space. "Many people have opinions that getting out of our comfort zone can help us develop ourselves. But for me, finding a comfort zone first is the most important thing so that we understand and love ourselves better."

The ideas and themes of his work are based on the life stories he lived yesterday and beyond. Chuanslee dreams of conveying messages and feelings of self-love in private areas through the doodles he makes. Chuanslee combines black and white monochrome which means the foundation of life together with red, blue and green which shows the meaning of daring to dream in the box he created.

“MELORA AND THE GIANT TAPPUACH”

Chuanslee

Gambaran tentang sebuah pertanggung jawaban. Apel menjadi lambang pengetahuan, hidup abadi, godaan, kejatuhan manusia karena dosa, dan dosa itu sendiri. Hawa dibujuk oleh ular untuk memakan buah apel dari taman eden, yang diketahui akan memberikan pengetahuan tentang baik dan buruk. Alih-alih menggambarkan Hawa sebagai seseorang yang telah melakukan kesalahan, saya lebih menyoroti tentang tanggung jawab penuh untuk tindakan yang telah dipilih. hidup yang kita jalani tentang rayuan dan pilihan yang kita ambil dan pada akhirnya ada harga yang harus dibayar atas apa yang di pilih. Kita semua berada dalam situasi dimana kita tergoyang karena pilihan di depan kita, dan itu adalah cerita yang kita semua alami. Beberapa orang berpendapat bahwa Tuhan tahu apa yang akan dipilih Hawa, sementara yang lain percaya bahwa Tuhan memberikan kehendak bebas kepada manusia untuk membuat pilihan sendiri, dan bertanggung jawab atas pilihannya.

“MILIA CHILD WHO PEEL THE LOVE”

seorang anak yang selalu bermain dengan pohon apel, tempat di mana anak itu bisa mememetik dan memakan buah apel sepuasnya bahkan menjualnya, dimana juga batangnya pohon tersebut di potongnya sedikit demi sedikit untuk membangun tempat yang nyaman untuk tinggalnya dan jembatan untuk anak itu berkelana, dan menjadi tempat berbaring dan istirahat yang teduh, berpelukan dengan akar disaat pohon itu hanya menyisahkan akar tua sekalipun. Semua orang memiliki pohon apple dalam hidupnya, mengibaratkan pohon apel sebagai orang tua yang selalu memberi kulit, daging dan nyawa nya untuk anak tercinta.

Emilio Garcia

In 2008, Emilio García created Jumping Brain, a sculpture inspired by the bold spirit of those who escaped over the Berlin Wall and the brain's ability to adapt (neuroplasticity). It symbolizes the power of ideas and the courage to leap forward.

The piece quickly went viral, grabbing attention from art collectors and galleries. In 2011, Toy Art Gallery in Los Angeles hosted a show featuring Emilio's work and versions of Jumping Brain customized by other artists. A year later, he had his first solo show at Artoyz Gallery in Paris.

Jumping Brain was later featured at big art fairs like Scope and Art Miami. That same year, the brand TOY2R released a blindbox version, which became Japan's top-selling art toy.

Since then, many artists have reimagined Jumping Brain, turning it into an icon in the Art Toy world. Made in various materials resin, vinyl, bronze, and marble it's even been showcased in giant 2-meter editions. It's now part of several museum collections, including in Quebec, Chicago, and Paris.

Crack The Toy

Rack / Crackthetoy a graffiti artist, toy designer & visual artist based in Tangerang, Indonesia. Art has always been a part of Crack's life. In Junior High, he saw some kids making graffiti tags of their school. Curious, he started spending his lunch money on spray paint and began to graffiti tags all around the neighborhood. Realizing his passion for graffiti & illustration, Crack pursued an education in art, majoring in Visual Communication Design.

Having been doing art for more than 10 years, Crack's work has taken him to new places, working with various mediums & collaborating with many brands and is currently working on adapting his art to designer toys, most notably a spray can character that he's been developing for awhile now.

Hatred of the society he lives in and the way that society thinks is what drives Crack to make his art. He is inspired by things in his daily life & by a lot of his childhood memories. When creating animations, painting, illustration, graffiti and designer toys, Crack likes to include elements of graffiti, Hip Hop & Japanese culture in his pieces.

Crack's artwork is defined by crisp lines, with resplendent, vibrant & urban, with a sense of flow. "I consider my work to be my way of self-discovery. I constantly work to refine my style by attempting various approaches to achieve my goals."

Mang Moel

1984, Yogyakarta

Mulyana (Mang Moel) b. 1984. Mang Moel is known as an artist who uses yarn and cloth in his work. Mang Moel graduated from the Department of Fine Arts and Crafts, Universitas Pendidikan Indonesia (UPI), Bandung in 2012. After his solo exhibition in 2012 entitled "Mogus World", Mang Moel lives in Yogyakarta until today. Mogus is an alter-ego in the form of an octopus monster character created by Mang Moel complete with they ecosystem that is close to the visual form of underwater.

13 years since his first solo exhibition, Mang Moel has undertaken many explorations. Apart from using yarn as the main material, Mang Moel also combines materials and massive forms using iron structures and other supporting materials. What clearly stands out from Mang Moel's work is the modular system in each of his works, this system was chosen because he felt it could save the main material. Mang Moel realizes that his work practices indirectly have an impact on the environment, bearing in mind the use of manufactured thread material which is not small in each of his works. This is what made Mang Moel decide to use leftover yarn from the factory to be used as material for his creations. The yarn used as the material for his work was obtained from several home-based industry in Bandung city.

Abiebi

My name is Dedi Setiawan. As an artist, I go by the name Abiebi. By profession, I am an art director working in advertising. Having graduated from design school, I grew up with iconic characters such as the Simpsons, Doraemon, Atom Boy, Karmen Rider and many more. I love collecting toys, from Japanese to American.

My venture into the world of Art/Designer Toys was greatly inspired by one of my friends. Before I started creating and designing my own, I'd seen him customizing a Munny. Soon after, he created his own art/designer toy character. Personally, I find it really awesome that you can create your own toys from scratch. From the initial conceptualization and artwork, all the way to translating these into resin or vinyl form as well as painting and marketing.

Learning from there, I began to explore my own concepts, styles and ideas with something that's original, witty and thought-provoking! I wish for my work to exude originality and also wish to be known for being different. I hope that these will then be an inspiration to others, as I believe, 'Better to be known for something, than be forgotten for nothing'.

Winola Sebastian

Winola Sebastian is a painter and an art content creator. She has always aspired to become a painter since she was in elementary school. "Artist!" was the answer she gave whenever anyone asked her, "What do you want to be when you grow up?" She was born in Jakarta, on the 23rd of June, 2002. She is currently a surrealist painter, and she likes to experiment with her art supplies. Usually, she is inspired by the thoughts in her head, her life journey and her fascination with personal growth and personal development. She explores those themes with various subjects, mostly human beings and portraits, in mediums such as acrylic paint, watercolor, and sometimes (very rarely) oils. After documenting the process of her painting, she uploads the videos on her social media. On her Tiktok and Instagram, she posts short form content discussing various topics that pique her curiosity. Things like the history of famous paintings, different painting and drawing techniques, and the meanings behind her works. She does so in hopes to inspire and connect with soft-hearted ones who relate to her art.
